BTS Releases Reports on Ocean Passenger Vessels

Friday, January 22, 2010 - The Department of Transportation's Bureau of Transportation Statistics today released two special reports on the ocean passenger vessel industry. U.S. Ocean Passenger Terminals: serving larger vessels closer to home and central transit connections provides an overview of the trend since 2004 to larger vessels and terminals located closer to population centers and transit connections. Ocean Passenger Vessels: migrating south for the winter examines the seasonal pattern of cruise departures from northern ports in the summer and southern ports in the winter. The report on terminals can be found at http://www.bts.gov/publications/bts_special_report/2010_01_19/ and the vessel report can be found at http://www.bts.gov/publications/bts_special_report/2010_01_20/.
